Read the following passage and answer the questions given below: 5 of 5 points

Half the world does not have enough to eat. Each year, as a result millions die young. The bodies and minds of many more are permanently damaged by hunger. We say that suffering can be and must be stopped. When all of us, in the rich and poor countries, make up our minds to stop it, we can stop it. The earth is ruled by people out of touch with the young world. They know that men starve and die in millions, but they think it is more important to make guns and bombs, to see us fight one another, than to provide food for your countrymen. Do not turn your backs on the people who provide food: instead, work with them for rural development. If you are educated in special knowledge and skills, remember that science and technology that can send men into space, need only to be released into poor countries to work even greater miracles. If you are a parent, resolve to end the sufferings of children. Let us make it plain to the rules that the division of the world into rich and poor must end. The many billions spent on armaments must be spent to develop the world. Let them know too, that if political or financial systems prevent a just distribution of food and wealth, these systems must be replaced. Above all we must show our willingness to work for world development. Mankind is one family in which each of us has a duty to help others.
